Messon's Brace Comes Too Late-Harry Lead With Four Victories and One

Game Lost-Standing of the Players. Hall, but lost. His previous poor playing told against him, and Sutton won score of 500 to 437.

A very pretty run of 49 opened the evening entertainment, Sutton gathering the balls soon after counting from the spot. In his expressionless but effective way be held the balls close with the least posible expenditure of effort and ran 49. was harder work for Slosson to reply with a flurry of 33. The balls rolled to an imfreeze, and the Student failed to count from the spot. Sutton's second was a featureless 33, but counted as much as any other kind of a 33 and also Slosson's salutatory muster of the undred in his third inning, and to assess the balls for 29 counts he kept driving and unching them, but the ivory was unresponsive and the balls kept wide.

A bank shot with the bridge and a three cushion shot were efforts of quality by sson in his third inning, but quantity to four points, and the score was 111 to 38 in Sutton's fayor. Another run favorable to a good average was negotiated by Sutton in his fourth inning. He accumu-lated 25, the steadiness of his play since the start being shown by the following ecutive breaks; 49, 33, 29, 25. A miscue closed the fourth instalment. Then the ofitable continuity of his innings was oken by a goose egg. Sutton made a cushioned jewel in his sixth inning and got position too, but immediately proceeded to miss an easy shot.

The second freeze to increase Slosson's reden came in the seventh inning and was left by Sutton. The balls were spotted, and this time the Student counted. He seemed cheer up a little at this and to play less stlessly, but missed a wide spread draw on the sixth endeavor. There was no life in his play and little buoyancy in the balls for either-man. Neither man's stroke was attuned to smooth play, hence balky ivory. But with more elasticity in Sutton's aim tenth inning came brisker counting and more animated balls. Sutton ran 31 brought his total invoice to 207, Sloshately made a pronounced nent of form. He transacted business to the extent of 57, his first approach to first class billiards of the evening.

Consistent balk line nursing by Sutton in the twelfth mining brought a grist of 50 to his mill the evening's richest yield up to for the most part with deep, cozy mud, but that time. Sutton had hard luck in finding in spite of this good time was made. Twentyball slipped guiltless of contact with the second ball. Slosson, in turn, had hard luck, when a kiss wrecked an around table shot which would have gathered game he made a quartet of double
